

What Exactly Does an Interim Rabbi do?

I have been asked by many people to explain exactly what it is that I do. In short, I am a real Rabbi (ordained in 1983), and I am here to function as a Rabbi but only for one year. Generally, interim Rabbis -- about fifteen interim Rabbis are working this year -- go to congregations that have undergone a major change with their Rabbi (retirement, death, etc.) and now need to move through a transition period that will allow them to “get back on track” so they can move forward to a new future.

I am trained to avoid certain extremes. On one hand, I do not come here as the bold visionary who wishes to change everything from top to bottom with my creative ideas. The new Senior Rabbi will have that task. On the other hand, I am not here as a mere babysitter. Ideally, the interim Rabbi can help the congregation to take a very critical look at who they are and what kind of changes are necessary to help the congregation flourish as it moves forward with a new Rabbi. The fact that Temple Chaverim (and the world) has changed dramatically since Rabbi Hecht came in 1992, requires us to prepare for this change by stimulating a new way of thinking. You might say that the interim Rabbi is a combination of advisor-facilitator-guide and, most importantly, conversation creator.

Another part of my work is to be an advisor and helper to the Search Committee so that they can hire the Rabbi they need as opposed to the Rabbi they want. While I am not formally involved in the search process, there are many subtle but important ways I can be of help to the Committee.

You should know that as an interim Rabbi, I will still function as a Rabbi and perform all Clergy functions as needed along with my colleagues, Associate Rabbi Debra Bennet and Cantor Brad Hyman. If there is anything I can do for you or if you would like to come in just to chat, my door is always open. I look forward to meeting you in the months to come.

Rabbi Selection Committee Update

The Rabbi Selection Committee, co-led by past presidents Shelly Wool and Karen Bressner, is made up of a representative sample of our members. The Committee is moving ahead to find the right person to take over as the new permanent senior rabbi for our congregation. The Committee’s goal is to have a rabbi selected by late January 2019.

The rabbi selection process is set by the Central Conference of American Rabbis (CCAR). Reform synagogues like ours who need a rabbi, file an application with the CCAR describing the congregation and what it needs and wants in a rabbi. Reform rabbis looking for a new position then request that their resumes be sent to the positions they are interested in.

The Selection Committee’s job will be to review resumes and attend interviews, sermons and lessons conducted by the candidates. While only those who have attended all meetings, interviews and demonstrations will be able to vote, all members of the congregation are invited to hear the candidates’ sample sermons and lessons, meet them and express opinions for consideration.

Rabbi Simon, our interim rabbi has gone through a similar selection process for each congregation he has worked with. He will offer guidance to the Committee based on his experience in helping other congregations conduct a rabbi search and his observations in working with us over the last few months.

Our application has been completed and filed with the CCAR. Once resumes start coming in, the Committee will select candidates and interviews will begin.

Cantor's Corner

With so much changing in our world, it's sometimes overwhelming to process it all without something escaping us. We are a very lucky congregation in that we are able to bend like a reed when the strong winds blow against us, rather than attempting to stand rigid in our ways against nature.

As you may already know, our congregation is actively searching for our new settled rabbi. Until that happens, we have solid leadership and solid vision built on years of proven success. So where can we best make a difference in insuring our strong health, contributing our voice where a lot of other voices are speaking all at once, and how can we protect the best of our shared interests and traditions?

Jumping off some of what I said in my Rosh Hashanah message to the congregation, I believe that ultimately we are at our best when we are together. The congregation can and does function when you are not physically here, but we are even better when you are present. Your opinions and your efforts are even more valuable when you establish a presence in our congregation.

I was extremely excited to see a full room when we ate ice cream together and welcomed new families at the end of the summer at our annual Ice Cream Social. New life that flows into our congregation will develop its love for this our Temple because of your presence and guidance. So please make sure that you are here in these important beginnings, to greet each other face to face and to learn what we have in common and where we have work to do.

I am dedicated to working very hard with our Search Committee, and I am also committed to hearing your voices when you speak up and speak out. Long-standing families with years invested in our relationship should continue to find that they not only have a place here, but in many ways they need to be an example to other families who might not understand that in a world of consumerism, a congregation is more about what you contribute. This has little to do with money, but rather it is more about what you contribute with your time and presence, your heart and spirit. These are the things that are most valuable.

Let us all make an effort to be more present in each other's lives. Put aside the hand-held devices and come to one of our meetings. Get involved in an area that most interests you. Partake in a potluck dinner. Learn something new at an adult education class. Join one of our auxiliary groups for a card game. Even if you are just dropping off a child for religious school, you are always welcome to come into the building to say hello. I am here for you, but I want to know you are here for me, too.

President's Message

Chaverim,

Welcome to our first Connections of the new year. And what a start to the year it's been! We have welcomed to our community Rabbi Simon, who has brought a fresh and invigorating aspect to our services. Our temple was filled with families for our High Holiday services. We then celebrated Simchat Torah – concluding and then restarting the reading of the Torah, and that was just through September! There will be many more holidays to celebrate, programs to participate in and events to attend in the coming months.

Rosemary Nucci, our office Administrative Assistant for over sixteen years, retired at the end of September. A dedicated staff member, she worked tirelessly to make sure all was right with members' issues, requests, and many important office details. She met every question, complaint and accolade with a smile, doing her best to make sure our members and lay leaders were satisfied with the outcome of their query. We will miss Rosemary, and wish her the very best in her retirement. We now would like to welcome Susan Hodara, whom Rosemary has been grooming for some time. We have every confidence Susan will be a great addition as we welcome her to our community.

As I said in my Yom Kippur speech, Temple Chaverim is rock solid, with a strong clergy and congregation. We are excited for the year ahead as we search and then hire our next settled senior rabbi. The search committee is hard at work, and I will provide updates as needed to keep you all apprised of its progress. We will be hosting town hall meetings in the near future for all who would like to discuss what's on your mind about Temple Chaverim. The Board of Trustees and I look forward to meeting with you and listening to your thoughts and ideas.

Wow, that was quite a bit so far this year! Stay tuned for what's to come...

Shalom,

Russell Willens, President

Do "ONE" Thing

When I was president of Temple Chaverim, 2014-2016, my mantra was "Do One Thing." This reference to volunteering was a simple request and one that many congregants continue to fulfill. After all, how difficult can it be to do just one thing?

Our temple thrives because of our countless volunteers; their daily work is appreciated by everyone. Volunteers form our Board and Executive Board. They participate in our numerous committees and work with the office staff to organize and execute just about every event. You could say that volunteers are the backbone of Temple Chaverim.

I feel pleased that so many congregants are still repeating my mantra and are encouraging others to volunteer to "Do One Thing" and help Temple Chaverim stay strong. Our volunteers find their projects personally rewarding. They often are surprised to see how much satisfaction and fulfillment they receive from volunteer work and agree to take on additional projects. What a wonderful mitzvah and success story!

Try to find the time to do just "ONE" thing. It may be a community action project, a fundraising event, stuffing envelopes in the office or helping at a youth event. If you would like to volunteer in some capacity, feel free to contact Eileen Schneyman, Executive Director, (eileen@templechaverim.org or 516-367-6100 Ext. 108) to inquire about volunteer opportunities. If everyone can do just "ONE" thing, Temple Chaverim will stay strong.

Circles of Giving

Join or renew your participation
in Circles for 5779

Circles of Giving is a vital pledge program whereby congregants voluntarily increase their annual support to Temple Chaverim by a minimum of $500. While our dues are in line with other local Reform synagogues, they do not completely cover the cost of running our temple. In fact, Temple dues, tuitions and fees cover approximately only about 80% of our expense budget. The gap of $500 per household must be made up through voluntary donations and fundraising efforts.

Temple Chaverim is committed to excellence in religious, educational and social programming, and to outstanding professional leadership. Your gift ensures that all children and adults in our congregation will continue to enjoy all the benefits of membership, in addition to providing scholarships to those in need.

To help strengthen our synagogue and secure our future of upholding Jewish values, please make your pledge to the Circles of Giving program.

Contact Fundraising Chair, Judy Weiss at jw1957@optonline.net or Eileen Schneyman at 516-367-6100 for information or to make a pledge for 5779.

Religious School

Chanukah comes early this year. It may seem so, since we light the first candle in the chanukiah on Sunday, December 2. But we know that according to the Jewish calendar it begins exactly when it should, on the 25th day of the Hebrew month of Kislev. Our Jewish calendar is lunar, so each month has 29 or 30 days. The Gregorian or solar-based calendar has 30 or 31 days in each month. So, in order to catch up instead of a leap year with one extra day, our Jewish calendar has a leap month every few years.

For many of us, Chanukah is filled with candles, joy, and, of course, presents. There are many gifts that we may give to our children as we celebrate Chanukah. Here are eight wonderful ones that you may not have thought of:

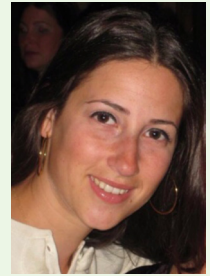

1. All our love
2. Listening to what they have to tell us
3. A compliment
4. Sharing a joke or family story
5. The gift of time
6. Lighting the Chanukah candles together and saying the blessings
7. Giving a gift that is Jewish in nature
8. Playing dreidel or eating latkes

On behalf of the entire faculty, I hope you enjoy a Chanukah that is happy and bright.

Meet our new Assistant Director of Youth Engagement

Dana Holzer graduated from Hofstra University with her Bachelor's Degree in Creative Studies/Fine Arts and her Master's Degree in Education. While in college, she was the Assistant Youth Director at North Shore Synagogue in Syosset where she planned and led numerous programs for grades 5-12.

After receiving her Master's Degree, Dana spent time working within the Syosset Central School District. She then served as the Assistant Regional Director for the B'nai B'rith Youth Organization, overseeing all activities and events for the organization's Nassau and Suffolk County teens. During the summer months, Dana served as the Art Director at the Suffolk Y JCC summer camp. She also spent several years working as an artwork manager and creative operations administrator at the Estee Lauder Companies in New York City.

While growing up, Dana played an active role in her synagogue's youth program and was a proud graduate of religious school. As the Assistant Youth Director at Chaverim, Dana looks forward to working closely with the congregation's youth. She hopes to expand the synagogue's program for the next generation, giving them a judgment-free place to have fun and meet new people, while focusing on core values of community, charity and religious learning.

In her free time Dana enjoys spending time with her husband Doug and their two children, Samuel (Sammy), 9 and Natalie, 5.

Temple Chaverim Hosts Candidate Forums

Temple Chaverim provided two important, separate opportunities for people to be informed voters on November 6th. On two different evenings, in an informational, non-debate format, attendees were able to hear from candidates of both parties running in their districts. This gave everyone a chance to not only hear from the candidates in a non-partisan venue, but also to ask them questions and share ideas about the issues impacting their lives in a face-to-face, personal setting.
